The five lessons from each book must be enumerated.

For the Kelley book, you will answer discussion questions assigned throughout the course according to the reading schedule and discussion board assignments.

- B. Message Evaluation - You will evaluate messages presented by five female speakers. You will be provided with a list of female speakers and links to their messages for this assignment. You will submit Message Evaluation according to the assignment schedule. Forms can be found in Files on Canvas.

The passages you teach must not contain more than three verses if from the epistles or wisdom literature, and no more than twelve verses if teaching from a narrative or poetic passage (per message). You will turn in a manuscript for your message before you begin speaking.

Oral Presentation Guidelines will be provided in Files on Canvas. This will include format and procedures for preparing and delivering each of the types of presentations. It is very important that you follow these guidelines carefully.

Presentations for campus students will be given during class time and the recordings will be uploaded to Canvas.

Presentations for online students will be recorded in front of a group of women the student has recruited, and the recordings will be uploaded to Canvas.

Students will be expected to watch the messages of classmates, either in real-time or as recordings and provide peer feedback through the Discussion Boards.

4. Personal Appraisal: You will view your recorded messages before the next regularly scheduled meeting and complete the Self-Evaluation Form found in Files on Canvas. Keep these forms and use them to complete a written personal appraisal, 1-2 pages in length, as to your growth and progress as a biblical communicator. VI. COURSE POLICIES

- The Bible as Required Textbook

The Bible is a required textbook in every course at Calvary University. To facilitate academic level study, students are required to use for assignments and research an English translation or version of the Bible based on formal equivalence (meaning that the translation is generally word-for-word from the original languages), including any of the following: New American Standard (NASB), English Standard Version (ESV), New King James (NKJV), or King James (KJV). Other translations and versions based on dynamic equivalence (paraphrases, and thought-for-thought translations like NLT AND NIV) may be used as supplemental sources. Please ask the professor if you have questions about a particular translation or version.

- Class Participation

Students are expected to attend class and participate in discussing the class material. Learning takes place best when the student is personally involved in the process. Cell phones should be set to silent and placed on the table or in a book bag/purse. Working on other assignments during class or using electronic devices for anything other than class activities or taking notes for the course will not be permitted.

Participation for online students is in the form of watching all assigned videos and participating in Discussion Board exchanges.

- Attendance
Research has shown that attendance and active participation in class correlates with higher performances on assessments. Therefore, your presence in class is important. After 3 absences, each additional absence will result in a 10% grade reduction. For online students, two weeks without submissions on Canvas will result in a 10% grade reduction.
- Plagiarism
Plagiarism is defined as copying any part of a book or paper without identifying the author. This also includes taking another person's ideas and presenting them as your own.
Other forms of cheating include copying another student's work, allowing a student to do your work, using notes instead of reading the literary works, basing your research essay on another essay, bringing cheat sheets or written information to a quiz or an exam, and working collaboratively with another student on individual assignments. This also includes handing in one essay for assignments given in two different courses to reduce the amount of student work. Please check with the professor if you have concerns or doubts about the academic approach you plan to take for an assignment.
- Originality
Plagiarism is defined as copying any content without identifying the source. This also includes taking another person's or AI entity's ideas or constructs and presenting them as your own. Plagiarism of any kind will not be tolerated. Most assignments at Calvary require the student to produce original work. Therefore, unless specifically permitted by the instructor, the use of AI-generated content is prohibited (even if cited) as it does not represent original work created by the student and is an unreliable aggregate of ideas from other sources. AI, however, may be utilized in cases where the instructor has explicitly permitted its use to accomplish specific tasks. It is only in these cases that AI-generated (or modified) content may be submitted by the student. If there are any questions as to the permissibility of AI use for an assignment, please ask your instructor for clarification.
Students may not hand in one paper for two different courses—even if the paper has been altered in some way. Students may not hand in a paper that was written for another class in previous courses. All work must be completely new and written solely by the student.
- Late work:
-10% from the final grade per day late up to 3 days, then the assignment is closed. That means that if you submit an assignment 3 days later, the highest grade possible is 70%. Messages must be delivered on the scheduled days unless an extenuating circumstance occurs and advance notification is sent to the instructor.

- Accommodations Statement
Students with disabilities have the responsibility of informing the Accommodations Support Coordinator (aso@calvary.edu) of any disabling condition that may require support.
- Style Guide
All class papers must follow the MLA style guide according to The MLA Handbook, 8th edition.
- The Clark Academic Center
The Clark Academic Center (email: cac@calvary.edu), located in the library building, is dedicated to providing free academic assistance for all Calvary University students. Student tutors aid with all facets of the writing process, tutor in various subject areas, prepare students for exams, and facilitate tests. Please take advantage of this free service.
